

Folding the page down from the top.

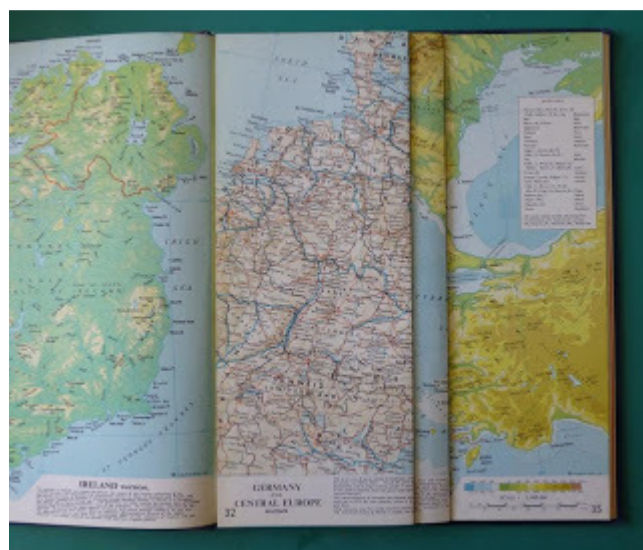

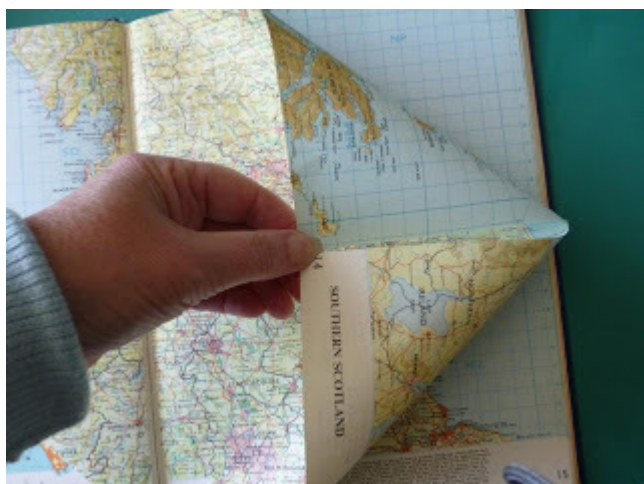

Folding the page up from the bottom.

For the next set of three pages I folded the first in half towards the spine.

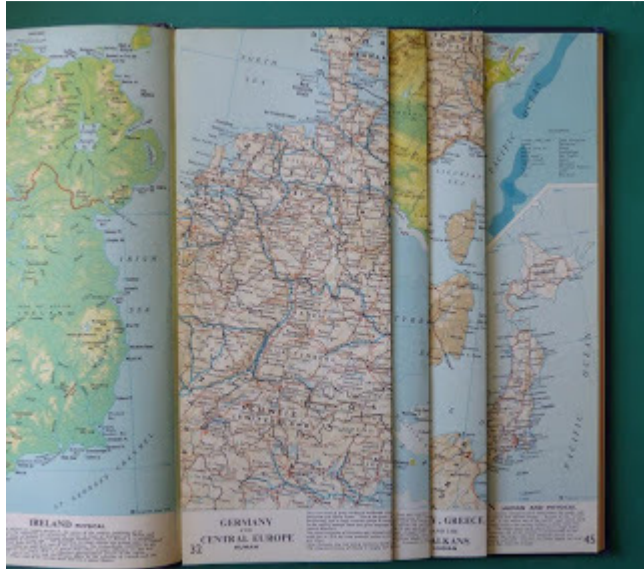

Finding the middle of the edge of the next page and folding both corners to meet in the middle.

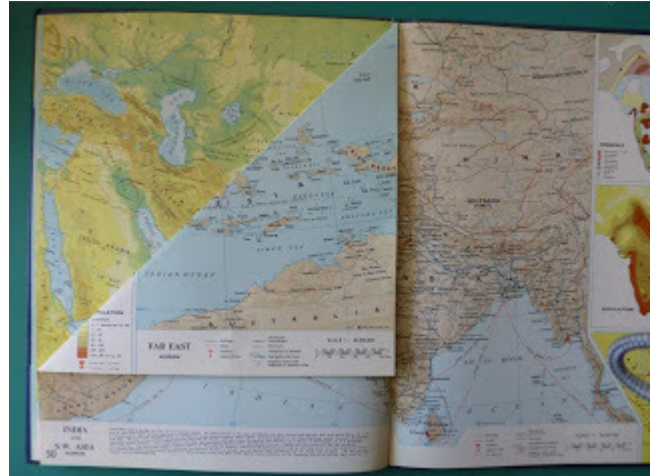

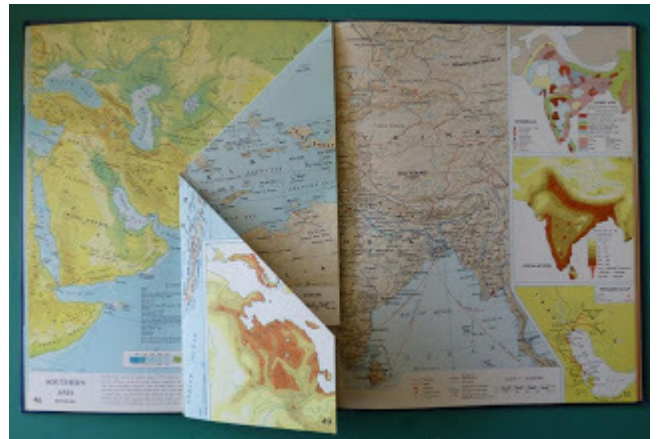

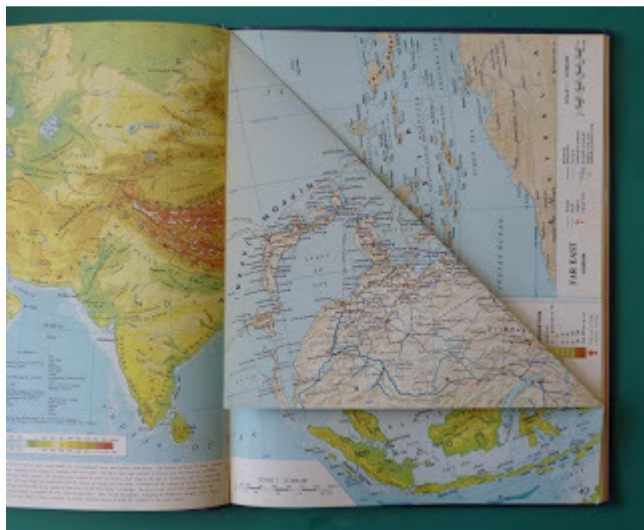

And then the third page is folded about a quarter of the way in.

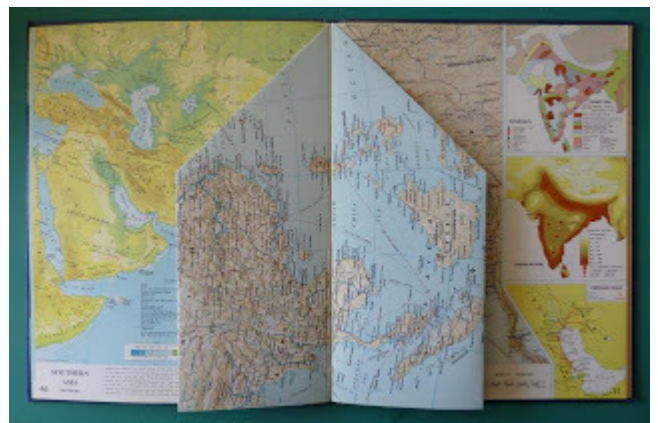

I turned over the next full page and repeated the folding.

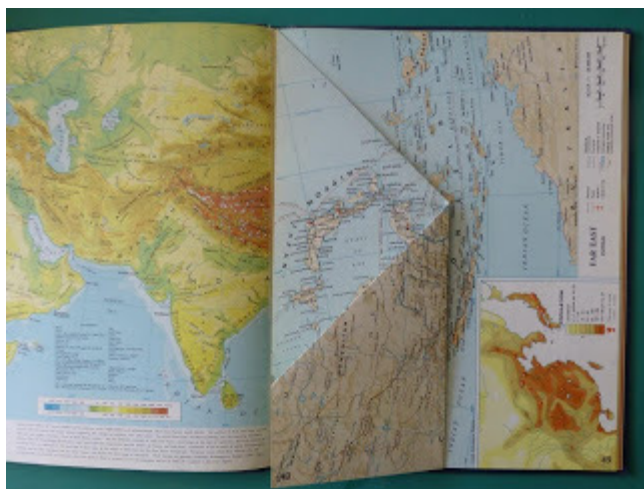

I turned over the page behind this set of three before starting to fold another page. This one I folded down from the top and then back on itself.

When these are opened out they look like this.

I decided I would cut a shape out of the next page so glued two pages together with glue stick. I managed to rip the page as I was applying the glue so that decided where the shape would be cut out!

I put a spare piece of paper behind the circle so you can see where it is!
