Dear Ms. Cashman,

Thank you for replying by email on behalf of Dr. Frieden and the Office of the Chief of Staff, CDC. This makes for a much simpler form by which to communicate.

With all due respect, your/CDC's response that there is "no new information to share" is not acceptable. It doesn't help to stop a huge problem which is harming thousands of people by an NGO's misuse of gov't funds.

Maybe I am the problem? I am not a lawyer or a government employee. As a result, maybe I'm just not phrasing and/or submitting the request properly?

To help me understand what I must do, will you please answer these two questions?

1. When the CDC becomes aware that one of their NGO contractors is promoting scientific fraud in healthcare-- what means are available to the CDC to make the NGO cease proliferating fraud with their misuse of federal funds?
2. If US citizens wanted to encourage the CDC to make one of its NGO contractors cease selling science fraud to US physicians with the use of federal funds, are there some sort of specific documents that must be submitted to your office in some sort of proper format?

For a greater understanding of just how bad this problem really is (i.e. ACMT continuing to promote a debunked risk assessment theory (the Veritox Theory) as appropriate physician education) please watch the below linked video. It's a presentation I gave at a mold conference last November. In the video, you'll see that not only do I discuss the vast harm being caused to the public, but also the criminal element to the now 15-year-old debacle.

Fraud Funded by US Govt Over Mold Disabilities by S Kramer

Please tell me how I effectively ask the DHHS/CDC/ATSDR to stop funding discriminatory science fraud in healthcare via the funding of a "nonprofit" medical association which is teaching it to physicians, and I'll follow the proper channels you suggest to make it happen.

Thank you for your help.

Sincerely,
Sharon Kramer
