For artists who have found oil painting daunting or frustrating, as well as those who want to paint but don't know where to start. A nuts and bolts primer to get you started painting your first oil painting without photography or group pattern.

The workshop begins with a demonstration by the instructor, followed by a walk-through of the oil painting and other related sections of Binders explaining what supplies you need and what you don't need. Students need to come prepared to purchase supplies the first day.

Students will paint a simple still life from life to begin exploring the principles of art. Charles provides a solid foundation of information for the student to take home, and to build on, to continue the beginning of their artistic journey.

Charles Young Walls was trained at the Art Students League and the National Academy of Design, both in New York City. He is an experienced art instructor with many years in the classroom. His paintings have won national awards and he was featured as one of Southwest Art Magazine's "21 Over 31" in 2009.
