

Free HomeFinder Service Helps Austin Homebuyers to Find and Buy Lovely Homes

I'm Gary Evans with Coldwell Banker United Realtors in Austin, Texas. I started my HomeFinder service to make it easy for you to learn what homes are available that may meet your needs and how to buy a home. Once I know your price range and exactly what you are looking for, I will set up a personal profile in my HomeFinder system that will search every home listed in the area you specify by every real estate company. You will receive an initial list of all the available homes that match your profile and then my system will automatically mail, fax or email new listings and price changes to you on a daily or weekly basis.

As you receive this information, you can study and compare and ask me questions about homes of interest, receive more details and market information. If you live in the Austin area, you can drive by the homes and when you find a home you would like to see, all you need to do is call me and I'll make arrangements to get you inside the home. At no time will you feel any pressure to buy a home. When you are ready, you'll know it and I'll be there to help.

It's easy to begin the HomeFinder service. Just leave your contact information and I'll take care of the rest.
