

Autism and Asperger syndrome are identified as mental and behavioural disorders in the World Health Organisation International Classification of Diseases (ICD10). Anyone who has a diagnosis on the autism spectrum is defined vulnerable in law under the terms of the Mental Health Act 1983.