

In Christ Journaling Prompts

What areas of your life do you still need to let God into?

How can you be more thankful?

Are there wrongs or injustices that you see that you are speaking out about? Or condoning by not speaking out?

Do you recognise what your life would have been like without Christ?

Rob describes our lives in terms of a house with many rooms. Do you let God into all the rooms?

How difficult do you find it to admit you are wrong? To yourself? To other people? To God?

'As if we have never sinned.' What difference would it make to your life if you really got hold of this truth?

Have you realised the power and authority you have when you pray? How might your prayers change if you prayed with this realisation?

Now we are 'in Christ' we look with the eyes of Christ, and hear with the ears of Christ. How does this impact your life?
