

Treatment & Recovery

Please take this brochure and read it carefully. It contains vital information to protect you and your threads.

Frequent hand washing helps prevent the spread of this thread-eating microbe.

If soap and water are not available, use gel sanitizers. Rub your hands until the gel is dry. The alcohol in the gel kills the germs on your hands.

Once you tat your cure you may expect to remain virus-free for the remainder of the conference.

Thank you for playing!

Thyme Leaf

What is Necrotizing Filitis?

Necrotizing Filitis is a nasty, thread-eating microbe. Once infected, it is easily transmitted from person-to-person. While not harmful to humans, quarantine and treatment are required to save your thread!

This bacteria-busting cure is derived from a variety of thyme leaf. Thyme leaves may be small, but they pack a powerful punch. They tackle thread-eating microbes.

How do I protect myself from Necrotizing Filitis?

Protect yourself by tatting a cure and keeping it close at hand.
