TEAM AWARDS

WAKA

BOJANGLES

Natalie & Matty G.

Well, at least we didn't have to wait in suspense and endure an entire season of trash talk from Helms and Russ before we came out victorious against the very talented Sons of Pitches. Victory came at a cost, though—we have two injured players whom apparently don't feel pain. Both Natalie and Matty G. sprained their ankles sliding into bases to avoid getting out—and BOTH OF THEM CAME BACK INTO THE GAME TO PLAY. They were feeling a different kind of kickball hangover at work the next day.

Amanda Winders

"The Ball Whisperer" This picture may not show it, but Amanda put the Wonders on the map with her Ladder Ball skills. With so much pressure from the other teams, you would have thought she'd crack. But ever the professional, Amanda put those balls in their rightful place. How does she do it? Lots of practice or is natural talent? Either way, we're so happy she's brought all of her knowledge to our team. If you've got some unruly balls, call Amanda. Big or small, she can handle 'em all! She is...the Ball Whisperer!

One Kick Wonders

Brett Jackson

Somebody call 911! Brett has earned Balls and Dolls' MVP of the week for owning 3rd base, having 3 RBI's, 1 run, and awesome plays in the field!

Taylor Jordan

The Pitch, Please! MVP this week goes to Taylor Jordan. The opposing Team pulled a fake out move on a hard hit line drive. The 3rd baseman intentionally dropped the ball to get multiple outs and stepped on 3rd for the first one (Taylor). Taylor not to be outdone by the 3rdbaseman's antics, acted as if she was in a rundown between 2 & 3. At this time she was just playing with herself, because the other Team hadn't bought in. Like a 3rd grader playing in the school yard with her homies, she started making faces and screaming and I will be dammed if the pitcher and 3rd baseman didn't start chasing her with the ball. Both Teams looked extremely rusty, but Taylor gave Pitch, Please! the edge by antagonizing the other team and allowing a run to score.

Wes & Katie

BBP has some new players for this season, and two of them made their presence known this week! Our Co- MVPs are Wes and Katie. They proved themselves useful from the very start. Even though the result wasn't what we were hoping for, Katie made a great catch in the outfield and got all the way to first base in her first outing! Wes was a bit luckier, he was our only player to go all the way on Wednesday!

Anita Simmons

This SOP rookie displayed her athleticism right off the bat. Anita was thrown into the second kicker position in her first game, and handled it like a pro. Her soccer skills came in handy as she did a phenomenal all around job!

Tyrone

The Token Bl...I mean New Guy Award This week's MVP goes to our new addition, Tyrone. We were a little worried when we lost our sweet Asian as catcher, but we found out quickly that Tyrone was da man! Not only was he responsible for the majority of the game's outs, but he was no stranger when it came to getting on, and moving around the bases. Watch out all you ballers out there, for our token new guy really displays natural athleticism, is fast as lightning, and can dive, jump and catch better than you :). Also, mad props for helping us secure our first win in bar games!
