Supplies Needed:

Various scraps - I used chenille, flannel and muslin
Mark B Gone pen, pencil
Scraps orange woolfelt
Peppercorns
Glue
Blush
4" rusty snowflake, www.rustytin.com
4" piece of rusty wire, wire cutters
Instant coffee, hot water
Thread and needle

Instructions:

Begin by printing the pattern pieces onto cardstock to create a template; cut on the lines.

Trace the pattern onto doubled fabric - as many ornie's as you wish to create. For my samples, I used chenille, flannel, and muslin - you can use so many different types of fabrics to create a cute snowman ornie! Sew on the traced line, all the way around. Cut out 1/4 inch away from sewing line; cut a slit through a single layer of fabric and turn right side out (RSO). Stuff firmly and whipstitch the opening closed.

Prepare your coffee mix: I used 1 cup of boiling water to 2 cups of instant coffee; you can dilute (for a lighter mix) or add coffee (for a darker mix). Paint them with the coffee mix and let air dry - you can also bake in the oven or dry in front of a fan. Please use caution if oven-drying.

When dry, glue the ornie head onto the center of the rusty snowflake. Take a piece of 4" or so rusty wire and thread the ends into the holes to create a hanger. I used my fingers to wrap it around a few times to secure.

Cut the nose from orange woolfelt, glue in place. Glue 2 peppercorns for eyes and blush cheeks. All done!
