Re: KELMAN v. SHARON KRAMER

Dear Mr. Brown:

Pursuant to your letter of June 13, the following retraction would be acceptable to my clients:

I apologize to Dr. Bruce J. Kelman and his colleagues at Veritox, Inc. (formerly known as Globaltox, Inc.) for all statements that I have made that suggested or implied that Dr. Kelman had testified falsely under oath, or had changed his sworn testimony. I was wrong, and my accusations were unfounded. Dr. Kelman and other personnel from Veritox provide testimony and scientific advice in a variety of contexts. To my knowledge, their testimony and advice are based on their expertise and objective understanding of the underlying scientific data. I sincerely regret any harm or damage that my statements may have caused.

Incidentally, I still have not received answers to the first set of Form Interrogatories that I served concurrently with the Request for Production of Documents, and that I gave you another copy of in Court on June 8. If I do not receive complete, verified answers to the Form Interrogatories by June 30, 2007, I will move to compel, and seek sanctions.

Very truly yours,
